been written on the subject. The death of Gustave Flaubert has awakened a new interest in his famous novel, "Madame Bovary." T. B. Peterson & Brothers have just issued a translation for American readers.

The sorrows and noble character of Elizabeth Christine, the neglected wife of Frederick the Great, are the subject of an interesting little book by Catherine E. Hurst (Phillips & Hunt, New-York). It is the fourth volume in the series of "Good Women of History."

In Bulwer Lytton's poem "St. Stephen's" the following allusion is made to the late Chief-Justice Cockburu's oratorical gifts:

Hush'd were the Benches when, with careless ease, With accents matchess and melodious keys.
With words the choicest, that seem strong by chance, Cockburn's frank mind reveal'd its large expanse.

The latest gossip from London says Lord Beacons field has had "Endymion" in hand during the last four years, but that the greater part of it was written since Mr. Gladstone's return to power. The date of the publication was kept a secret, and "the trade" was taken by surprise A house in Milan has already arranged for an Italian edition.

It is possible now to get handsome sets of the works of Lamb. Hallam and the elder Disraeli at a very-moderate price. A. C. Armstrong & Son have compressed the nine-volumes edition of Disracif's works, edited by Lord Beaconsfield, into six volumes, the Lamb into three volumes, and the Hallam into six volumes, and in each case reduced the price a balf.

The earnest poems of Frances Ridley Havergal are highly esteemed by a widening circle of readers, who will be glad to know that a handsome memorial volume called "Life Chords," and comprising "Zenith," "Loyal Responses" and other poems, has been issued by A. D. F. Randolph & Co. The twelve colored illustrations by the Baroness Helga von Cramm are not altogether successful.

Not long since the Editor of the Deutsche Revue was allowed to see a short unpublished manuscript of Fiederick William Herschel, and applied to a nephew of the great astronomer, hving in Falmouth. England, for permission to see other more exteneive writings that had never been printed. The neph-w, in searching for them, learned that his grandmother, growing weary of seeing them lying about, had thrown them into the fire.

Harper's Magazine for January, which will be published next Friday, will contain the first part of an illustrated article of interest to New-Yorkers. It is the story of the old Volunteer Fire Department from the time of its organization to the introduction of the new system. The writer, Mr. G. W. Sheldon, the new system. The writer, Mr. G. W. Sheldon, has obtained the greater part of his material from the records of the department and the personal reminiscences of surviving members of the old force. The article is profusely illustrated.

French and Spanish authors enjoy the benefits of a simple and effective copyright convention between their respective countries. The author who fulfils the requirements of the copyright law in his own country secures immediate protection in the other. The new English copyright treaty with Spain requires registration, and the delivery of a certain numbers of copies of English works within three months after publication, in order to secure protection in Spain; the same rule applying equally to the right of the performance or representation of musical or dramatic works.

The new revision of the New Testament will be the subject of three timely articles in Scribner's Monthly. In the January number Dr. Charles S. Robinson will treat of the Bible Society's relation to the new revision, and urge the Society to take charge of the American distribution. The second and third articles, intended for February and March, will be written by Professor George P. Fisher, of Yale College, and will comprise a history of the books of the Testament and of the different revisions, and a scholarly criticism of the new revision, and indicating, of course, the changes that have been made.

Dr. Schliemann's "Rios," or "The City and the Country of the Trojans," will be ready at Harper & Brothers' about next Tuesday. It is a magnificent book, richly illustrated, and provided with maps and diagrams. It is dedicated to Sir Austen Henry Layard, whom the author calls the pioneer in recovering the lost history of the ancient cities of Western Asia by means of the pickaxe and the preface is written by the celebrated Dr. Rudolf Virchow, of Berlin, who visited Dr. Schliemann at Hissarlik. He is cautious about indorsing all of the author's Homeric theories, but he says the excavations of Hissarhk would have had an imperishable value even if the "Ihad" had never been sung.

PRETTY PEGGY:

"Miss Rosina Emmett has made a most attractive, and what is much more difficult, an original little book for children. The pictures are in outline, with colors, and therefore dren. The pictures are in outline, with colors, and therefore this is not dissimilar in general effect to beeks of the same class in England; but Miss Emmett's work has a natura bess and grace quite distinctive. She tacapable of being either graceful or humorous as she sees fit. She has much variety in the scenes and an excellent judgment as to color. Colors as well as cosigns have a charming air of being unhackneyed and well-bred. Her work is as far removed on the one hand from the conventional cartoons we get from England as it is on the other from the ordinary comic illustrations for ballads of the nursery."

CLOSING PRICES OF PHILADRIPHIA STOCKS. Reported by JOHN H. DAVIS & Co., No. 17 Wall-st. North'n Pac. com .. 32% 33%

With a dull movement in stocks, prices generally drifted toward a lower point for the greater portion of to-day. Yet the declines were not important, but just sufficient to give a beavy tone to the market and to encourage "short" sales. The failure of Messrs, P. G. Arnold & Co. was regarded as an unfavorable feature, although it was not intimated that it in any manner would affect the traffic of railroads, or that a failure successfully to "corner" the coffee market, would curtail the consumption of that necessary article. The failure, however, being an important one, was used for all it was worth, to depress prices at the Stock Exchange, and it was not without some effect. The later news from Washington, however, proved to be more available as an argument in prices than did the morning ensation of the failure. The dispatch : " The Ways and Means Committee was unanimous in favor of a funding bond bearing not more than 3 per cent interest," which was received after half past 2 o'clock, started prices off on the
